Paimon: (Traveler), you're here!Paimon: Anything interesting you wanna talk about today?

01

(Unlock teleport waypoints in Mondstadt City)... About Cider Lake...Paimon: Cider Lake never freezes, no matter what time of the year it is.Paimon: The best apple ciders in Mondstadt can only be made using the fresh water from this lake.Paimon: It really does taste great! Paimon could drink two big bottles in a second!

... Wow.

Paimon: Tee-hee!

... With your size...

... I can't believe that you can drink that much water...

... And not explode like an Anemo Slime.Paimon: Paimon always has room for tasty drinks.

... Huh...

... I guess the world really is a big place.

... So many things to consider...

(Complete For a Tomorrow Without Tears)

... About Effort and Reward

Paimon: Paimon finds that hard work hardly works here in Mondstadt.

... Why'd you say so?

Paimon: Just look at Huffman from the Knights of Favonius. He does his best at his duties every day...Paimon: But the ever-relaxed Captain Kaeya is his boss.... Hmm, but isn't Jean, who works the hardest...

... The Acting Grand Master?

Paimon: W—Well, how about this, then...Paimon: Venti's the god of Mondstadt, and he's the laziest of them all!(Unlock teleport waypoints in Mondstadt City)... About *Benny's Adventure TeamPaimon: If you want to adventure together with Benny's Adventure Team, you have to come prepared.Paimon: Domains are very dangerous, so you should always take care to double and triple check your supplies in advance.Paimon: Paimon's heard that the Adventurers' Guild has compiled a list of four hundred and sixty-three different ways of dying in these domains...Paimon: If Bennett got you killed by accident, Paimon and Bennett would never forgive ourselves!

... Why am I the only one dying here?

Paimon: Well, that's because according to the numbers, Paimon can avoid three hundred and twenty-two causes of death just by floating!

... I suddenly don't feel like exploring these domains...

Paimon: Strange...

What's wrong?

Paimon: Diluc and Kaeya are really alike, so why don't they get along?

How are they alike, again?

Paimon: Well, Kaeya's the kind of guy who acts shady in the light of day...

Paimon: While Diluc is a shining beacon of justice in the dark of night!

Paimon: Don't you think that's kinda the same thing...?

Uhh... I still don't see it.

(Complete The Meaning of Lupical)

About Razor

Paimon: Have you heard of the brush?

You mean pens made using animal hair...

...For writing purposes?

Paimon: That's correct! They say that finely-made brushes sell for high prices among Liyue's merchants!

So, would you like to make some too?

Paimon: Uh-huh! But the wild wolves are too fierce, so we should use Razor's fur to make brushes instead!

Paimon: Razor's fur is all downy and soft. It'll definitely make great wolf pens! We could make lots of Mora like this!

Brushes made like that would conduct electricity.

I'm not sure we could use them...

Besides, Razor isn't a wolf.

Nor are wolf pens made from wolves' hair...

Paimon: Eh? Why are they called wolf pens, then?

Well, does Cider Lake look like it's full of cider to you?

Paimon: Hmm. You have a point.

(Unlock teleport waypoints in Mondstadt City)

About the "Wondermaid"

Paimon: It's time for Paimon's Little Life Tips!

"Little Life Tips?"

Paimon: In Mondstadt, if there's something you can't fix, or something that you can't get clean, no matter what you do...

Paimon: If you ever run into something you can't handle yourself, you just need to shout this name to the skies:

Paimon: "Noeeeeeelle!"

Paimon: And everything that's troubling you will be swept away in an instant.

So this is one of the tricks to living in Mondstadt?

Pretty impressive...

(Complete The Outlander Who Caught the Wind)

About riches...

Paimon: Paimon... doesn't feel so good...

What's the matter?

Paimon: Paimon hasn't opened a treasure chest in so long. If this

... You'll get caught in a hunting trap with a one-Mora bait someday.

Paimon: Hey! Paimon floats, so that'll never work.

(Complete The Outlander Who Caught the Wind)

... About cat people and dog people...

Paimon: Which do you like more, cats or dogs?

... I prefer Paimon.

Paimon: Eh? Um, that... That's cheating...

Paimon: Wait, no! Paimon's not a pet!

(Complete The Outlander Who Caught the Wind)

... About rock, paper, scissors...

Paimon: We should get something to eat! Aw, but Paimon doesn't wanna go over there...

... Shall we decide with a game of rock-paper-scissors, then?

Paimon: Ooh, okay!

... Alright then. Rock, paper—

Paimon: —Super Paimon Tornado!

... What?

(Complete The Outlander Who Caught the Wind)

... About Language

Paimon: You learn new things so quickly.

Paimon: You've already got such a good grasp of Teyvat's language.

... You're a good teacher, Paimon.

Paimon: Hehehe...

... Who knows?

... Maybe the quality of your nasty nicknames will improve, someday.

(Complete The Outlander Who Caught the Wind)

... About the luck of the draw...

Paimon: Urrrrgh...

... Hmm? Are there pigeons around?

Paimon: No, Paimon's just hungry.

Paimon: What Paimon needs right now is a traveler who can whip up some delicious Sticky Honey Roast.

Paimon: So, who's going to be the lucky traveler?

(Unlock the Geo Statue of The Seven in Dihua Marsh)

... About Couplets

Paimon: Paimon's heard that couplets are a traditional art form in Liyue. If you can write a line that works as a second half to one that someone else has written, you'll be well paid!

Paimon: But linking the couplet is hard, so it's not easy money.

Paimon: Not only does the rhythm need to match, but the meaning has to as well.

... Hmm, care to give an example?

Paimon: Uh... "Windrise's winds never churn."

... Um, "But the Sea of Clouds' clouds always return."

Paimon: Huh... Not bad!

About Heart's Desire

Paimon: Walk in seven clockwise circles, then walk in seven anticlockwise circles, then open your eyes...

... Are you sleepwalking?

Paimon: Nope! Paimon is just trying to see if that antique shop from "Heart's Desire" actually exists!

... Well, assuming that a shop in a story does exist...

... What would you like to buy, Paimon?

Paimon: A Slime Creator!

... Does such a thing even exist?

(Unlock the Geo Statue of The Seven in Dihua Marsh)

About Dihua Marsh

Paimon: Did you know? The reeds in Dihua Marsh are common materials used in making paper.

Paimon: The solid reed cores are used to make pens, while the hollow part is used to make flutes, and it's considered an elegant art in Liyue.

Paimon: Over the years, many heroes and swordsmen have also chosen Dihua Marsh as the location of their duels.

Paimon: The more reeds, the more elegant the place. But in places where the reeds are the thickest, the water can be quite deep...

Paimon: So there are lots of unlucky duelists who fall in and drown while the duel is on...

... And what's my takeaway from this supposed to be?

Paimon: Don't fight!

(Unlock teleport waypoints in Liyue Harbor)

About Beidou

Paimon: How do you become as popular and cool as Captain Beidou?

... With enough experience...

Paimon: Paimon's already seen lots of things from adventuring together with you!

... One also needs to experience trials and setbacks...

Paimon: Paimon almost drowned that one time...

... Maintain an inspirational disposition...

Paimon: Uh-huh! Paimon's always rooted for you!

... One must also have a mature outlook towards problems...

Paimon: Hey! Are you just trying to say that Paimon can't make it?

(Complete Farewell, Archaic Lord)

About Ningguang

Paimon: How does a person become as rich, or as rich, or as super rich as Lady Ningguang?

... Is that the only impression she gives you? Riches?

Paimon: Well, there's the huge Jade Chamber, too! But isn't that also made of Mora?

... Well, you need an excellent mind...

... About Qiqi Being a Zombie

Paimon: Do you think that Qiqi... needs to drink blood?

... That's not a zombie, Paimon, that's a vampire.

Paimon: Then, will her arms fall off suddenly?

... That's also not a zombie, that's a ghoul.

Paimon: uh. [sic] As expected of a traveler. You really know a lot!

Paimon: So, what special thing can zombies do?

... Exercises?

Paimon: That makes a lot of sense! So zombies are the ones that can perform exercises!

(Complete Stillness, the Sublimation of Shadow)

... About the Vision Hunt Decree

Paimon: It's hard to talk about the recent events in Inazuma and not mention the Vision Hunt Decree.

Paimon: But you don't have a Vision, so you don't have to worry about losing one.

Paimon: On the flip side, if you are caught by the Tenryou Commission, (Traveler), you also can't surrender your Vision in exchange for your life...

... I can tell them...

... That you are my Vision.

Paimon: Another reason to have Paimon around... Wait, WHAT!?

... Don't worry, I wouldn't let them take you, Paimon.

Paimon: That's more like it.

... We'd just go to jail...

... And suffer punishment together...

Paimon: Uh... W—Well, if that's how it would go down, then maybe you should hand Paimon over to them...

Paimon: ...Wait a minute! How about we just don't get caught in the first place?

(Complete Stillness, the Sublimation of Shadow)

... About Gorou

Paimon: Hmm...

... What are you mulling over, Paimon?

Paimon: (Traveler), do you remember Gorou's fluffy ears?

Paimon: Paimon really wants something like that... Or maybe horns similar to the ones Ganyu has. Ganyu's horns are pretty cute as well.

Paimon: (Traveler), do you have any ideas?

... Let me see, hmm... Oh, I found something!

Paimon: Really? Aw, (Traveler), Paimon always knew you were reliable!

... About Kamisato Ayaka

Paimon: Hmm...

... Paimon, you look so serious today.

Paimon: That's because Paimon's thinking about serious things.

Paimon: Paimon's jealous of people from wealthy and influential families. They have an endless supply of Mora and mountains of delicious food to eat...

... I can't disagree. Those are exactly the things you're fond of.

Paimon: But after getting to know Ayaka better, Paimon realized that a young lady from a noble family can also have her share of hardships.

Paimon: She needs to shoulder her clan's duties and responsibilities. She works so hard and has very little time for herself.

Paimon: Ayaka must be exhausted, she should try to relax a bit...

Paimon: Ah, that's right! Let's invite Ayaka to the next festival!

Paimon: If she got an invite from us, there's no way she'd refuse.

... Yeah.

... I'd like to go to another festival with her.

Paimon: Besides, if Ayaka's around, she can pick up the tab for us...

... ...I should've seen that coming...

(Complete The Whispers of the Crane and the White Rabbit)

... About Festival Traditions

Paimon: It's a well-established tradition that during Inazuman celebrations everyone's wearing festive masks.

Paimon: Paimon tried to look around the stalls, but hasn't found any mask that fits...

... So you really want a mask of your own?

Paimon: Of course! Not wearing a mask during an Inazuman festival is the same as not receiving a bouquet at the Windblume Festival...

... Let me make one for you.

Paimon: Whoa! (Traveler), you're the best!

... Hmm, I wonder what kind of mask will fit you best?

... How about... a slime mask?

Paimon: Yay, Paimon Slime!

(Complete Dreamlike Timelessness)

... About Yoimiya

Paimon: Do you think Yoimiya's dad's poor hearing is related to fireworks?

Paimon: He's been making and testing fireworks for many years now, and being exposed to the sound of gunpowder explosions on a daily basis... Paimon can see how that might've worn down his ears...

Paimon: Yikes! Since Yoimiya is inheriting her family business, does that mean she'll have trouble hearing other people in the future, just like her dad?

Then you'd need to leave me.

Paimon: But... What should we do for Yoimiya...

Actually...

She can simply wear earplugs while working with fireworks.

Paimon: Oh yeah! Paimon didn't think of that solution! You're so smart!

Heh... That was the first thing that came to my mind.

But I wanted to give you an opportunity for a mental workout.

About Sayu's Troubles

Paimon: Sayu seems to have a lot on her mind.

Paimon: Paimon can't understand why she'd have so many worries.

I guess this is what they call growing pains.

Paimon: Hmm, Paimon can't relate to that.

Paimon: After all, it's not Paimon to worry too much.

Hmmm...

Bad news! We're almost out of Mora.

I guess we'll have to tighten the purse strings for the next few days...

About Naku Weed

Paimon: Even though Naku Weed has a flower-like structure, its "petals" are in fact leaves.

Paimon: Its actual bloom is rather fragile, so the surrounding leaves try their hardest to grow strong and protect it...

Paimon: Hee-hee, just like Paimon is protecting you right now.

Just like you? Oh, is Naku Weed edible too?

Paimon: Really? Really? Let's have a look!

Paimon: Hey! Isn't that the knife we use to cut fruit?

Well, at least it's the right size for you...

... About Canned Knowledge...

Paimon: Free knowledge without having to study at all? Canned Knowledge is amazing!

Paimon: Could Sumeru have Canned Knowledge about the different customs of the seven nations, too?

Paimon: If so, Paimon could just open a can every time we get to a new place. Paimon wouldn't have to explain things ever again!

... Or we could just open them all...

... Here in Sumeru...

Paimon: But... but traveling wouldn't be any fun without surprises to look forward to!

... Plus, if we opened them all here...

... I wouldn't even need Paimon as a guide anymore.

Paimon: Okay scrap that idea! No more Canned Knowledge. Let's save our Mora for something else!

Paimon: The Eremites are a real motley crew...

... There's certainly a diverse range of characters.

... About Divination...

Paimon: People in Sumeru seem to take divination and fortune-telling pretty seriously.Paimon: For starters, there's astrology, although only the scholars get to practice that. But ordinary citizens have their ways, too. They can do divinations with just a cup of coffee!

... It's the nation of wisdom after all...

... It seems like people have an insatiable curiosity to learn about everything, including their own future.

Paimon: Paimon heard that they can tell your fate just by looking at the bottom of a finished cup of coffee...Paimon: Sounds way easier than climbing to the top of a tower and staring at the stars all night!

... Your stomach is going to punish you for that!

Paimon: If so, Paimon'll go see a doctor and get treated – it's all for free! It'd be a waste not to take advantage of this, don't you think?

... Maybe... but then again...

... The treatment would likely include a restricted diet.

Probably...

To get their research paper written as quickly as possible.

Paimon: Huh? But isn't a scholar's ultimate goal supposed to be "pursuing the highest and greatest knowledge" or something?

Paimon: Paimon's sure that it must have been because of a fervent desire for knowledge that they became Sumeru's first true scholar.

Writing papers is how you pursue knowledge.

Paimon: But what about when it's the highest and greatest knowledge of all...

Even then, if you wanted to prove it, you'd need a research paper.

And after that, you'd need to start working on another paper

To validate your original thesis...

Right, so if you were an Aranara...

Your name would be "Arapaimon."

Paimon: Yup, and as for you...

Paimon: Hmm, actually, they'd probably call you "Nara Traveler"...

Yeah, we're all Nara to them...

Paimon: At the Fontaine Research Institute, they research clockwork and different energy sources, right? So how come there are rumors about a mystery treasure?

Paimon: It'd make more sense if the treasure was owned by a bandit or a pirate.

Paimon: But Paimon's not sure that the researchers' and technicians' definition of "treasure" is really mysterious enough to get excited about...

... Hmm... What about "researcher by day, bandit by night"?

... Does that sound mysterious enough?

Paimon: Umm... Well for starters, it sounds exhausting. Imagine finishing your day job, then working a whole other job all night... When would they get time to rest?

Paimon: So apparently, some detectives in Fontaine manage to solve cases without ever setting foot outside their homes. They call them "armchair detectives"...

Paimon: That's what they call "working from home," right? Sounds pretty cushy.

Paimon: Still, how do they figure out the truth if they never even go to the crime scene? ...Oh, Paimon knows! They must be using divination.

... You're thinking of fortune-tellers, Paimon. Not detectives.

Paimon: Oh... yeah...

... In any case...

... Surely the evidence isn't just dropping itself off at the detective's doorstep.

Paimon: You mean... Oh, the detective must have people collecting information for them...

... About the Children of Echoes' Gems...

Paimon: Hey, so the valleys here are just bursting with shiny gemstones!

Paimon: You don't come across that kind of opportunity every day! Why don't we start a dig somewhere? If we're lucky, we might unearth something super valuable. Then we'd never have to worry about running out of Mora again!

... Hmm... But how would you actually know when you've hit the jackpot? Can you even tell which stones are the valuable ones?

Paimon: Um, well... As long as something's bright and shiny, then it must be worth a lot, right?

... That makes us sound just like...

...evil hoarding dragons in children's fairytales!

Paimon: Hehe, except we're in Natlan now – so instead of "evil dragon," it's "noble Saurian"!

Paimon: "O brave and keen (Traveler), let this noble Saurian lead you to the most precious gem in the world!"

... Great! Except she can't tell which stones are the valuable ones, so how's that gonna work?

... About Resolving Conflicts...

Paimon: Paimon's heard that even in Natlan, there are lots of ways to resolve conflict that don't involve contests of strength.

... Really?

... In the Nation of War?

Paimon: Yeah! Like, apparently, some people in the Children of Echoes settle their disputes by holding a dance-off!

... A dance-off?

... So like, they'll mutually decide on a time and place...

Paimon: Uh-huh!

... And just dance their socks off?

Paimon: Mm-hmm!

... Until one person gets so exhausted, they can't get up anymore?

Paimon: Yep!

Paimon: ...Wait, what the... Hold on, that IS a contest of strength!

... Does that mean you'll become Buffmon...

...if you were to stay there awhile, Paimon?

Paimon: No! Paimon likes herself the way she is now.

... Okay, then what about staying with the Flower-Feather Clan instead? They're adept fliers.

... I'm sure they could help you sharpen your skills!

Paimon: Huh? But... isn't Paimon good enough at flying already?

... Yeah, but then you'd be able to carry me when you fly.

Paimon: Nope, not happening! How would that even be possible?

... Well, if you had those muscles I talked about...

Paimon: Oh, geez, not this again... For the last time, no!Condition missing

... About Ways to Make Friends With Saurians...

Paimon: Oooh, there are so many cute Saurians in Natlan! Paimon's gonna make friends with every single one!

... Oh? Someone sounds confident...

Paimon: You bet! Paimon's got it all figured out!

... Oh you do, huh? Come on then, what's the secret to making Saurian friends?

Paimon: It's really simple! First, you've gotta sweet-talk them, show 'em you mean well so they relax their defenses. Then, you gently pat them on the head – that makes them feel more comfortable around you.Paimon: Last but not least: Get 'em some good grub! The way to a Saurian's heart is through the stomach, after all! What do you think? Solid plan, huh?

... Hmm, why do I get the feeling that...

... These tactics would also work really well on you?

Paimon: Would not! Paimon can't be won over by some cheap tricks!

... Huh? Oh, you misunderstand! I meant to say that...

... You're as cute as a baby Saurian!

Paimon: Hah! Flattery, really? You think that'll work on Paimon? Think again!

... But I was being sincere, Paimon!

... Ah, how can I prove it you? With some Sweet Madame, perhaps?

Paimon: ...Wait, really? Sweet Madame? Oh, heck yes! Paimon could totally go for some of that right now!Paimon: ...Uhh... What's with that smug look on your face? ...What!? Is Paimon missing something?Condition missing

... About Strange Technology

... Come to think of it, we've met not one but two genius inventors in Nod-Krai, haven't we?

... First Aino, and then Sandrone.

Paimon: Yeah, you're right. And the proof of their genius is in the hi-tech pudding: Ineffa Pudding and Pulonia Pudding!Paimon: Actually... Okay, well "Pulonia Pudding" kinda works, Paimon's not gonna lose any sleep over that one... but Ineffa Pudding

...finally learning!

Yes, Paimon, name-calling IS disrespectful!

Paimon: Hey!

Seriously though...

Who do you think would win in a fight between Ineffa the Annihilator and Pulonia the Pulverizer?

Paimon: Are you for real!? Who's the name-caller now, huh!? Also, fantasizing about violence is a way worse habit than giving people ugly nicknames...

Paimon: ...Honestly, though? After everything that's happened recently, it's hard to imagine them getting into a fight. Everyone's getting along pretty well these days.

Paimon: It's just as dumb as trying to imagine Jean and Diluc in a fight...

I can't believe you still remember that...

Ahem, but anyway... we're getting sidetracked. Back to Ineffa and Pulonia: I've thought of a foolproof way of figuring out who's stronger...

All you'd have to do is lock them both in a room...

Then drop Lynette inside...

Paimon: What the...!

...And whoever gets destroyed last is clearly the strongest!

Paimon: Mmm, Paimon's not convinced. Like, sometimes, the more advanced technology is also the more fragile, right?

Paimon: ...Ugh, what are we talking about? Enough! No more imaginary fights between friends!

About the Frostmoon Scions

Paimon: Paimon heard that the Frostmoon Scions worship the moon. So, what do you think they get up to during the daytime?

Uhh... just go about their normal lives, I guess?

Paimon: No way, not if they're up all night worshiping! Paimon bets they have a really unusual daily routine.

Unusual how?

Paimon: Like, uh... When the sun comes up, they probably shapeshift into huge boulders and take a nice long nap.

Paimon: When night falls, they wake back up again – and with a swish and a swoosh, they're back in human form! Then, they sneak away to start getting up to their secret, mysterious work...

So let me guess – the worst-case scenario for them is...

Blowing through nap time and doing an all-day and all-nighter?

Paimon: Yeah, exactly! See, you got it!

Yeah, I got it... You're getting mixed up between "Scion" and "Sayu" again.

all her inventions work even better than expected!

Which invention have you fallen in love with now, Paimon?

Paimon: The cleaner bot's pretty cool!

Paimon: We should get her to build one for us. It would be really handy to have in the Serenitea Pot!

Really, just the cleaner bot?

Paimon: Hmm, you're right! We might as well make the most of Aino's talents. Let's get a dish-washer bot, a tidy-up bot, a gardener, and one to feed the pets...

Paimon: While we're at it, it'd be great to get a chat bot, too. That way, Tubby will have someone to talk to when we're not around.

Good idea. Anything else to add?

Paimon: Let's see... We could get a cooking bot? Something like the supreme cuisine machine, y'know? It'd be nice to have the option, but of course, there's no substitute for your home cooking, hehe.

Paimon: Although, all these robots everywhere would take up a lot of space... Maybe it'd be better if we got Aino to combine them all into a single machine!

So basically...

You want a multifunctional robot for domestic application... Better known as Ineffa.

Paimon: Huh? Wait, you're right... Ineffa can do all of that stuff...

All that, and far more besides.

She even makes a pretty good travel guide...

Paimon: Uhh... You're not seriously thinking of giving Paimon's job to someone else, are you!?

Paimon: No, no, no, that could never work! There's only one Ineffa, and she has to take care of Aino. We can't separate them!

Paimon: Don't get Paimon wrong, Ineffa's great, but, but... being a housekeeper in the Serenitea Pot would be too easy for her, don't you think? It'd be a real shame for all that talent to go to waste.

Okay, okay... Paimon is the best guide I could ever hope for.

And no one's ever gonna separate us.

Paimon: Hmph. That's more like it.

About the Northern Intelligence Network

Paimon: The Northern Intelligence Network... What a mysterious-sounding organization!

Paimon: A secret society, quietly pulling the strings behind the scenes, running the entire world from the shadows!

"Secret society" seems like a stretch.

We know a whole bunch of the people involved.

Paimon: ...Ohh yeah, we do! Hey, this could be our foot in the door! We should totally join, then we can get one of those cool codenames! Like... ummm... Ooh, White Gold!

Oh, because you have white hair and I have blond hair...

An unusually sensible nickname, for once.

Paimon: Well, yeah! This is our own nickname! The weird ones are intelligence network? what do you think Varka's codename is? Grand Master?

Paimon: Heh, it's kind of hard to imagine Grand Master Varka doing spy stuff, isn't it? He's not exactly a low-key kinda guy...

Paimon: He'd probably go busting into the enemy base through the front gates, mowing down all the minions in his path, and then strut his way out with a briefcase full of intel in hand.

...I suspect that, as Grand Master,

he probably delegates that kind of work to people like Kaeya and Rosaria.

Paimon: Oh, good point! ...Wait, you're right, this isn't a secret society at all! More like a... who's-who of... people we know already!

Snezhnaya's Deceptive Lifeforms

Paimon: Paimon's noticed something. Snezhnaya has loads of super tricky lifeforms! It really seems like they're deliberately misleading.

What do you mean?

Paimon: Well, take Flockingweed for example. It's so fluffy, you'd think it was a little animal, right?

Paimon: And Snowball Flowers. Unless you look at them closely, you'd think there were just little snowballs sitting on top of the leaves. Hmm... guess that explains the name...

Also, Lumi. Imagine if she hid perfectly still in a pile of minerals...

I bet no one would ever notice her.

Paimon: Exactly! Based on her example, it seems like the trick to surviving in this cold, harsh environment is to learn the art of disguise!

Paimon: Or... No, wait... Lumi only looks like that because she likes eating minerals, doesn't she...

Project Stuzha

Paimon: Turns out "Project Stuzha" just means everyone having to save energy and tighten their belts.

Paimon: If Paimon knows anything, it's that pinching pennies and skimping on food is no way to live...

How would you know that? I don't think I've ever treated you quite so badly...

Paimon: Oh, come on, it was just a turn of phrase! Of course Paimon knows you treat her great.

Paimon: Paimon was kinda sheltered from Project Stuzha when we first got to Snezhnaya, since she was resting and recovering. She heard tons of stories about how tough things were, though. Everyone struggling to make ends meet...

Paimon: But you were out there in the thick of it, so you must have seen it firsthand.

After learning about the true purpose of Project Stuzha...

I feel like there was no other way...

Anyway, it's all in the past now. With Project Stuzha suspended...

...What?

Paimon: The clue's in the name! If Project Stuzha means scrimping and saving, Project De-Stuzhification means everyone gets to use as much Kristall as they want!

Paimon: Every household can say, "We've got a whole mine's worth of Kristall out back! So dig in, and use as much as you want!"

Hold out your arm, Paimon. I need to pinch you to make sure you're not dreaming...

(Between 6:00 and 19:00)

Good morning, Paimon.

Paimon: Morning! Are we going out for some tasty food today?

Paimon: Paimon's ready to go anytime!

(Between 19:00 and 6:00)

Good night, Paimon.

Paimon: Nighty night, (Traveler), and sweet dreams!

Paimon: And don't you worry, Paimon'll be with you all the way!

Special Dialogue

When a character is invited to or invites themselves to their favorite set for the first time, the character will provide a reward. They will provide a reward for each of their favorite sets.

Inviting them to the furnishing set again will replay the dialogue, but no further reward will be given.

Paimon currently does not have any special dialogue.

Trivia

- After Paimon is placed, she will not appear when the Paimon Menu is open while in the Serenitea Pot.
